

INCOME FROM CAREER AND TECHNICAL EDUCATION PROGRAM SERVICES

The services and products provided through the district's various CTE programs are not designed to be competitive with local businesses. However, when such services and products are made available to the public, the customer will be charged an amount sufficient to cover costs of materials, supplies, parts used, and of insurance if applicable.

Money received from customers will be turned in daily to the school business office for deposit in a designated depository. This money will be credited to a special CTE account set up to cover parts, materials, and miscellaneous costs for the services provided in these programs.

The CTE director and the instructor in charge of a particular CTE program will be responsible for setting prices or charges for services and products offered the public.
